Market Research & Business Development

Reports

Market research – Conduct market research for the client for a target region and create a document that includes company names, contact names, contact information, company analysis. Companies would include potential partners, strategic partners, customers, distributors, trade shows, sales organizations, etc.

Business Development – Contact the companies in the regional market research document to assess interest in the client's products and or services. Add communication notes to the market research document.

Road Shows

Business Development & Sales - Set up meetings with the best potential companies in the regional market research document for the client. Design a 'road show' for the client including all scheduling, transportation, hotels, etc.

Trade Shows – Identify the best trade shows for the client in the target markets. Create a cost spreadsheet for identifying costs of attending the trade show. Help with making all arrangements for attending the trade show and or exhibiting at the trade show. Attend the trade show on the client's behalf.

Marketing, Business Development Strategy, Product Positioning and Branding

Positioning & Branding - Assess the client's products, branding, design, positioning, pricing, strategy, etc. for their target markets. Recommend changes necessary to ensure successful sales of products and services in those target markets. If requested, oversee the making of those changes.

Loyalty Programs

Jon Shore has designed loyalty programs for over 50 large multi-national corporations including financial institutions, retail chains and manufacturers. Successful loyalty programs do not occur by accident, nor are they a result of copying what others have done before. They are carefully designed incorporating human psychological expertise, empathy, utilizing the best business practices and the latest technological innovations. If you want a loyalty program or want to upgrade the loyalty program you currently have, Jon is the guy who can design and implement the best, within your budget.
